Quill Pen

1952

Salem Academy . . .

Winston-Salem, North Carolina

In dedication

Call her "Dean Brown," and she laughs. In fact, she laughs at many things, but only those which are rightfully humorous. Call her "Miss Brown," and she listens. Always she listens to our difficulties and our delights. Try to "get by" with something, and she sees. Never has there been such an observing eye! She "jacks us up" too, but that is because she expects us to do our best. We observe her every day, full of energy, working endlessly on her never-completed job of being "dean" to ninety girls.

Math and dramatics and camping and knitting—all of these interests and "us" too! Just for once, Miss Brown, let us congratulate you for all that you are. Please accept from the Class of 1952 the dedication of this, our Quill Pen.

MISS FLORENCE M. BROWN

Silhouettes of Salem

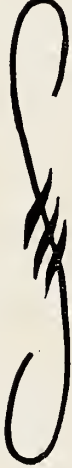

Dragging ourselves up those long steps from the Social Room, wearing loafers and heavy, white socks, the loud-speaker broadcasting piano practice throughout the school at the end of each period . . . walking down a hall and hearing the recordings of "Cry", "Too Young", "Hello, Young Lovers", "Blue Velvet", "Shrimp Boats Are Coming", and "Slow-poke" . . . poodle cuts and pony tails, quilted skirts plus crinolines, Black Satin perfume, scarves, medallions, and big earrings . . . Mary Patterson's picture, the bulletin board, the speaker's stand in the Social Room . . . wicker furniture, mail call, crackers and milk at recess, stacks of laundry bags in the kitchenette . . . dates, T. V. cuts, ruffled night caps and calomine lotion . . . the Goose Egg, white and red flags, surprise birthday cakes, Senior Rings . . . stuffed animals, the hostess bell, Friday night coffee . . . to us, all of these things spell out "Salem" . . . spell it out in black and white.

Sometimes looking over our four years at Salem, we remember these isolated pictures of everyday things which take on significance only as we leave Salem. Sometimes, looking back, we think of our progress from year to year, and certain events stand out, clearly silhouetted.

For instance, we remember our Freshman year when we were the babies of Salem. Our Freshman Carnival showed that we were becoming more aware of the world as it depicted our wide knowledge of geography by its Turkish Baths and Dutch Treats. We remember, too, those days as Sophomores when we trudged wearily from the laundry with huge bundles of clothes—all this for a few cents! Those few cents, however, filled our treasury so that by spring we were able to give a Tea Dance honoring the Seniors.

Juniors at last! We were determined to give a fabulous Junior-Senior Dance. We ran the Duck Inn, sold coffee and doughnuts to late Sunday sleepers, and had an almost professional fashion show. At last we unveiled the results of many long, laborious hours on our "Stardusted" Prom. Wasn't it a contrast to that square dance we gave our Freshman year?

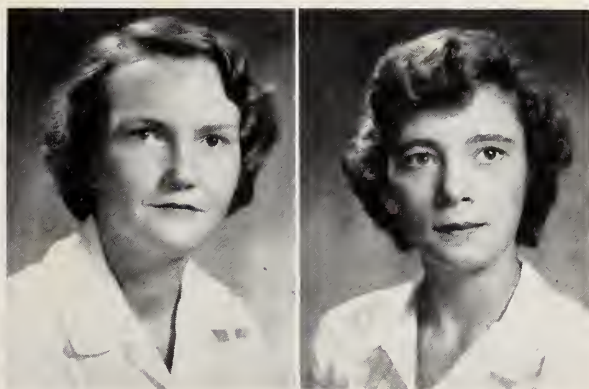

We were on top—we were Seniors. This year was most fun of all. We remember Senior Day and showing our authority, especially at "Court" that night. We remember the Senior Bazaar. We remember . . . yes, many things of this year are projected on our memories: caroling to the under-classmen before Christmas, teas, Senior parties, source themes, exams, Class Day, and finally Graduation.

Other things such as courtesy, consideration, integrity, responsibility . . . intangible things difficult to bring into focus . . . are there in our memories, too, shading every interpretation of Salem life. Heavily outlined are our friendships and bull sessions, our teachers, our studies.

All of these things . . . the isolated pictures, the particular events, the abstractions . . . crowd together as we survey Salem, making myriads of silhouettes in the memories of the Class of 1952.

Honors

President of Student Body

Mishew Cooper, the speaker's stand, and Wednesday night—these three things symbolize Student Body Meetings at Salem.

Honor Graduates

Ann Altvater and Cissie Darr are photographed striding down the hall enroute to the library. As the Honor Graduates of the Class of 1952, they were often seen in the library, particularly as the time for their Commencement Addresses drew near.

Academic Marshals

Citizenship Honor

Since the Citizenship Honor election is never held until the end of the year, we could not get this year's group. However, we have a picture of Citizenship Honor girls of last year, five of whom are still at Salem. Pictured in the traditional flag-raising ceremony, they are: Ann Altvater; Elizabeth Christian, Class of 1951; Mary Louise Cornwell; Anne Crenshaw; Joanne Musgrave; Reecie Pool; and Elizabeth Tucker, Class of 1951.

Sports

Jane Snipes, Head of Purples
Elizabeth Horne, Head of Golds

"Hurry up, Jane, we've only got two minutes to get dressed and get to the gym."

"I'm hurrying as fast as I can, Liz. I never have time to do anything anymore. Besides, here's the Quill Pen Sports Editor to get that summary of the year's activities we promised her."

"Tell her to come with us to the gym. We'll survey this year 'step' by 'step'!" . . .

"I can remember when we thought being Head of Purples and Golds was just fun, but we've been in a whirl since the first Saturday night of school when we drew the names of the new girls to decide which team they would be on. Well, the Purples started by winning the tug-of-war, but the Golds got in some good innings later on. Morning walks? It really kills us to get up early and keep a list of those who walk around the building twice, but it's healthy (they say). The Purples came out on top in the hockey and soccer games, and we announced the teams and the honorary varsity at the Cowboy Banquet given by the Athletic Council. We decorated the dining room like a western saloon in the rip-roaring days. Yippee! After all of these outdoor sports had left us husky and vigorous, Miss Benson brought us into the gym to teach us the feminine graces. Body mechanics and modern dance—all this and diets too! When did we play basketball and speed ball? Oh, that was second semester. We had four big games: Purple-Gold, Junior-Senior, Freshman-Sophomore, and Academy-College. And then 'twas spring. If you were on the campus during gym periods, you'll remember hearing all the 'Fores,' 'Strike ones,' and 'Your serves.' Uh huh—golf, softball, and volley ball. Sure, the Athletic Council always celebrated each season of sports with a banquet and an announcement of the honorary varsity. Besides the two of us and Miss Benson, our advisor, the heads of each sport are members of the Council. Is that all we did? Is that ALL, she asks? Heavens, no. Every Tuesday and Friday a group of girls went to Sedgfield for horseback riding; tennis, badminton, and table tennis tournaments were played; and breakfast and supper hikes were taken; and we went swimming when it was warm; besides all those things we did to promote good sportsmanship, good posture, and fair play . . . and plus being late to gym, I'M OUT OF BREATH. O. K., just one more question. Will the Purples or Golds win the cup this year? Well, we have our own private opinions, of course, but no one will know that until Recognition Day. In fact, we don't know the winners of any of the athletic awards until then."

Purple-Gold Drawing

Supervised by Miss Benson, Athletic Director, Heads of Teams draw names of new students for their teams.

Basketball

Hiking

Shuffling through the leaves on a fall hike, Reezie Pool, Ann Palmer, and Georganne Coble, Head of Hiking, enjoy this way of adding points towards athletic awards.

Hockey

Soccer

Individual Sports

Ah, the Duck Inn, the House of Calories! Betty Shuford and Margot duGardein are burning up that extra candy bar as Martha Cline and Evelyn Crawford wait their turn at table tennis. Betty Shuford is Head of Individual Sports.

Volley Ball

We had a time getting this picture—the ball just wouldn't go over. Finally, the net sagged in cooperation, the ball leaped in the air, and the team prepared for action. Here they are, left to right: Linda Pettyjohn, Sally Hazen, Emily Michal, Charlotte Lawson, Sue Gill, Suzanne Walker, Ann Weaver, Marian Hutter, Peggy McKaughn, Julia Hart, Tops Anderson, Evelyn Crawford, and Anne Jordan.

Softball

Too bad this home run didn't count in the big game. Here at practice are Mishew Cooper, grimacing over a fast ball, Barrie Altvater, watching the plate, and Anne Nicholson bringing in a score.

Speedball

Fooled you, didn't we? Looks like Gerrie Fuller has that speedball, but there it is in the air. Bearing down upon it are, from left to right: Janice Ausmus, Amy Lou Cotter, Linda Reed, Betty Jane May, Head of Speedball; Gerrie Fuller, Marian Hutter, Makie Griffin, Van Lindley, and Margot Moore.

Riding

"If you'd stop posing and get in the station wagon, we might get to Sedgefield in time for a full hour's ride." Dorsey Cosby, seated in back, and Stuart Spicer, front, hurry Dawn Lantzius, Head of Riding; Trudy Mason, and Amy Lou Cotter.

Body Mechanics

Body Mechanics has its "ups" and "downs," doesn't it, Gayle? That it keeps you on your toes, though, is demonstrated by Emily Michal, Marian Hutter, Ann Weaver, Gayle Cooper, Van Lindley, Julia Hart, Margot Moore, and Evelyn Crawford.

Modern Dance

Golf

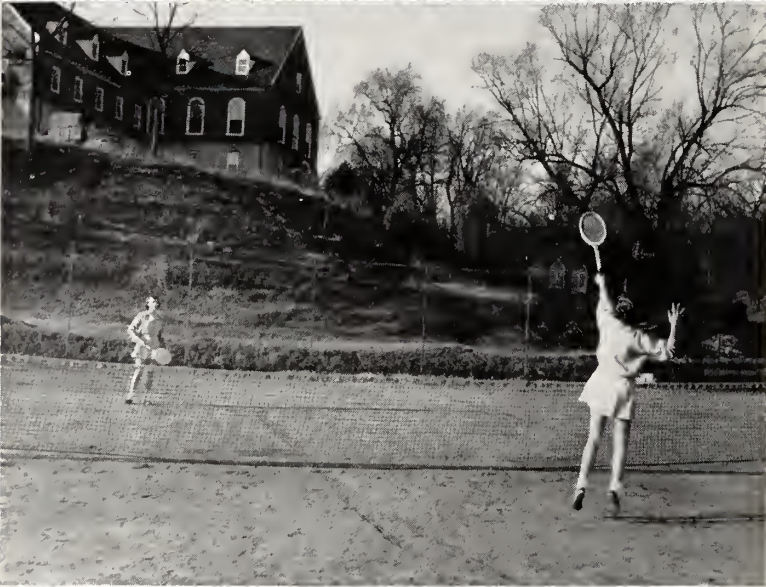

Georganne Coble and Mary Louise Cornwell, waiting their turn, watch Ann Altvater take a full swing at the ball.

Swimming

We thought you wouldn't notice that those are college girls in the swimming picture. It was too cold in January (when pictures for this book were taken) for our girls to pose, so we used a picture taken last spring.

Tennis

Mary Ann Kelly gives a left-handed return to Leilani Andrew's ball in the singles tennis tournament. Leilani is Head of Tennis.

Morning Walks

These girls don't seem to mind getting up early to stroll around the building before breakfast! The happy souls illustrating this tradition are Patricia Upton, Margaret Benton, Eleanor Gannon, Natalie Hine, Margie Smith, Martha Wood, Mary Shaw, and Louise Cannon.

Organizations and Activities

Student Council

Welcomes new students.

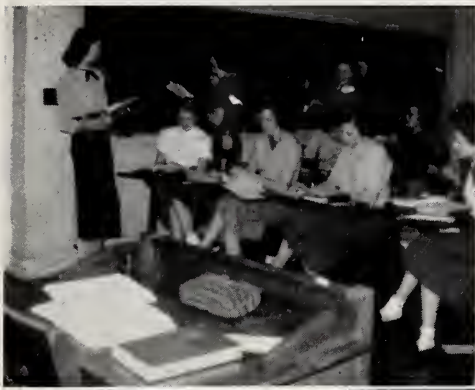

Has opening banquet.

Explains handbook.

Miss Cauble, Assistant Dean, drops a few words of advice to the Student Council on using psychology in carrying out their duties. Seated in the Faculty Room are, left to right: Sally Hazen, Miss Brown, Dean; Mishew Cooper, President of Student Body; Miss Cauble, Georganne Coble, Senior Councilor; Tops Anderson, Marie Watson, and Margie Smith. Standing, left to right: Ann Altwater, Senior Councilor and Secretary; Mary Louise Cornwell, and Susan Freeman. Not pictured: Joanne Musgrave.

Honor Council

Upholds honor in the classroom.

Explains "honor" in chapel.

Upholds honor in study hall.

Pajamas and housecoats—it must be after light bell. Yes, it's the Honor Council, and Georganne Coble, President, seems to be discussing a matter of importance with the councilors. They are, left to right: Anne Crenshaw, Mary Saunders Williamson, Marie Watson, Ann Altvater, Mishew Cooper, Georganne Coble, Reezie Pool, Gayle Cooper.

Dramatic Club

Using Cissie Darr and Charlotte Lawson to illustrate her lecture, Sally Hazen explains WHY I AM A BACHFLOR. This was the second one-act play given on a program of three. The third play, THE CHIMNEY CORNER, is not represented here.

Jane Snipes, Daisy Doughton, Evelyn Crawford, Janice Decker, and Leilani Andrews are pictured as they rehearse the one-act play, FROM FIVE TO FIVE-THIRTY, given in November.

Glee Club

Seated at the piano in the foreground is Louise Cannon, patiently waiting to turn the page so Anne Jordan, our capable accompanist, will not miss a single note. (Unfortunately, Anne did not realize as we snapped the picture that she was playing from a hymn book while the Glee Club sang Gilbert and Sullivan.) Directing is Mrs. Eugene Jacobowsky.

Not pictured: Reezie Pool and Joanne Musgrave.

While the Glee Club sings traditional Christmas music, Carol Sherrill, Betsy Babcock, Ann Altvater, and Margo duGardein form on stage a living Putz beneath the Moravian star.

Six leads in TRIAL BY JURY practice informally around the piano.

Sponsors hall devotions.

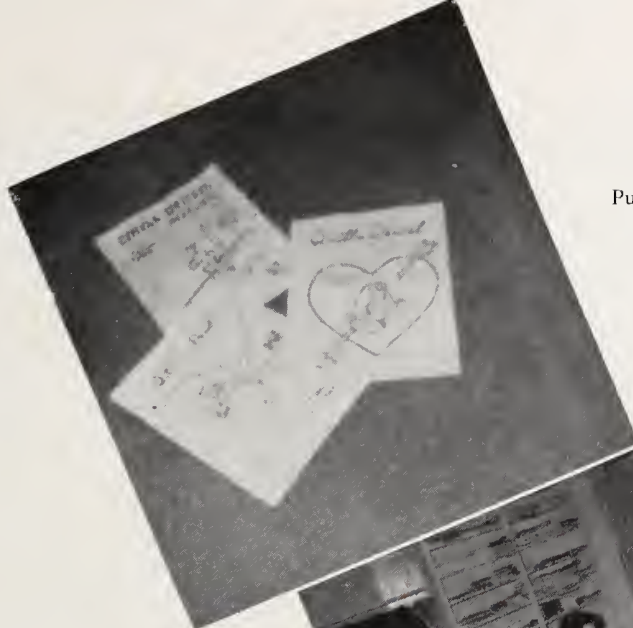

Holds Sunday night vespers.

Spiritual Steering Wheel

We tried to take a different pose of the S.S.W. this year, but we decided they did not look natural away from the fireplace where they always hold Friday Night Devotions. So, here they are seated around the fireplace (left to right): Jane Moore, Celia Carter, Nancy Ziglar, Vice-President; Anderson Booe, Trudy Mason, Secretary-Treasurer; and Anne Crenshaw. Background, left to right: Ann Weaver, Betty Jane May, Makie Griffin, Margaret Benton, Betty Shuford, Head of S.S.W.; Miss Cauble, Advisor.

Publishes Quill Pencil.

Encourages creative writing.

Scribblers' Club

Committee Chairmen

Pardon our pun, but it seems that the Committee Heads have been "stepping-up" some plans. Anyway, those pleased looking people are, left to right: Betty Heekin, Program Committee; Charlotte Lawson, Social Committee; Dawn Lantzius, Service Committee; Caroline Blackwelder, Community and World Service Committee; Barbara Foard, Standards Committee; and Reezie Poole, Good Will Committee.

Act as messengers on Sunday.

Visit those in infirmity.

Formerly sponsored the Red Cross, now a separate organization advised by Mrs. Lyon.

Dance Committee

Dancing with their dates at the Valentine Dance, for which they did the planning, are: Elizabeth Horne, Chairman; Martha Cline, Janice Decker, Ann Emery, Dawn Lantzus, Lois Plummer, and Willie Neal Reynolds.

Sends out invitations.

Decorates gym.

Welcomes girls and their dates.

Quill Pen Staff

Members of Business and Advertising Staffs check our advertisements.

Members of Editorial Staff wait for advice from "Miss Mac."

Remember there's no substitute for Coble quality—ask for it at the sign of the green oval!

Quality in FLAVOR PURITY

Home-makers all over the Carolinas have learned that they can rely on Coble Quality to please the whole family.

The flavor and purity of each farm-fresh drop of Coble milk is constantly guarded by the strict "Quality Controlled" supervision—from the farm to the container. This EXTRA quality controlled care makes it possible for Coble's to bring you nature's most nearly perfect food—in its purest and tastiest form.

Let your family "taste-test" Coble milk, today. You'll be convinced that it does always taste better!

Look for the Coble Seal of Quality
—you'll find it only on genuine
Coble products.

STAINLESS-STEEL PIECE DYEING MACHINES

By Burlington

Burlington's piece dyeing machine was developed for the purpose of providing a smoother, more efficient dyeing process for the textile industry. We eliminated many of the imperfections commonly found in dye becks and substituted Burlington features—the result is a dyeing machine of outstanding efficiency. Burlington-built dye becks, tailored to your plant's specifications, can do a better dyeing job for you. Consult or visit us for complete information. Burlington Engineering Company will tailor any textile machine to meet your exact specifications.

Katharine Boring Rondthaler

1877 – 1952

This tribute was read by Mishew Cooper, Student Body President, at the Salem Academy and College Memorial Service on May 6, 1952.

We remember the first time we saw Mrs. Rondthaler after our arrival at Salem Academy; she greeted each of us by name. How flattered we were that she was interested enough in us to know our names—even before we were introduced!

We remember that on the occasions at the Academy, occasions that we consider important—plays and operettas and recitals and Christmas Pageants—Mrs. Rondthaler was always in the audience, smiling her pleasure.

We remember those talks she made to us at Vespers and at Chapel. She could talk on any subject, but Moravian Customs was always a favorite topic. She never missed the ceremony of hanging our Moravian Christmas Star.

We remember her gracious hospitality, particularly at Christmas when she ushered ninety Academy girls, clutching their favorite animals, to her fireplace; settled them around Bishop Rondthaler to hear him read Dickens' Christmas Carol; and then fed them Moravian buns and punch.

We remember being in the infirmary and knowing that we could count on a cheery visit from Mrs. Rondthaler.

We remember her as a real lady who embodied charm and wisdom and unselfishness.

We remember her as a truly great woman who has left her mark not only on her own community but on every community where there are Salem girls who knew her and benefited from their association with her.

We remember now and we shall always remember Mrs. Katharine Boring Rondthaler. To Bishop Rondthaler and his family the students of Salem Academy extend their deepest sympathy.
